Introduction to 3D Lamination

Synonymous for offering the highest quality 3D PVC foils in the industry, we at NEY have carried out extensive market research in order to find out where we can improve the service to our customers.

The result was compelling! The demand at the volume end of the market is not being satisfied at all in terms of good, reliable products at competitive and stable prices.

The volume area is the most sensitive to the cost/value rationale, not to mention quick availability, and our answer was the introduction of an additional PVC foil range which we call the CONTRACT RANGE.

The instant success of this new range has shown us that our survey was correct. It is far better to determine the most suitable products for all our customer's jobs and not to limit our service to the jobs that suit our products.
